

Working as a nursing college, always we know that there are many generic hazards which can arise during the year. So we must take a proactive approach to protect our own safety and that of other people whom you are responsible for. In this case we attempt to hold different continuous workshops such as first aid, fire precautions and safety in areas of particular hazard for both students and staffs in order to keep them alert in risk management.

Annual reports of the university campus and located buildings risk assessment

Being under the supervision of &ldquo;Engineering Office of University&rdquo; school building has been monthly inspected from view of all safety engineering systems and all changes are being supervised and controlled through this office. All equipment are tested annually and the report kept and filed.
